BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE WINTHROP MURDER MYSTERY

The Victim. Woman, twenty-four years old, well developed, light complexion, weight about 140 pounds.
The Crime. Girl believed to have died after illegal operation; body cut up and the torso strapped in a sample case and thrown into bay. Found twenty-four hours after death.
The Criminal. Man skilled in surgery and anatomy. Shown by cause of girl's death and manner of body's dismemberment.
The Clues. Mutilated trunk of the victim—headless, armless, legless with internal organs removed and replaced. No marks except a discoloration due to a bruise on the left side. Large black sample case, water-soaked, two catches and plain lock. No special marks. Strap tied around case.

Afternoon the woman died from septic poisoning resulting from an operation. The autopsy shows the victim was about 24 years old, of light complexion and weighed about 140 pounds. The doctors were satisfied, also, that death occurred only a few hours before the body was found.

purpose is to carry out so far as possible a plan for mutualization. Under the charter of the society its fifty-two directors are divided into four equal classes, each class holding office for four years, so that in each year but thirteen directors are elected unless vacancies by death or otherwise exist at the time of the annual election, which occurs in the month of December.

No Annual Meeting Yet.

"Inasmuch as no annual meeting of the society has been held since the trustees assumed the duties of their trust, there has thus far been no occasion for their direct intervention as voting stockholders in the selection of the directors to fill the places of those so classified that their terms will expire with the close of the present year. The trustees were, however, at once confronted with conditions in the management of the society which had resulted in such numerous resignations from its board of directors that it became absolutely essential to the proper and orderly administration of its affairs that the directorate should be immediately reinforced by filling, to some extent at least, existing vacancies in the board."

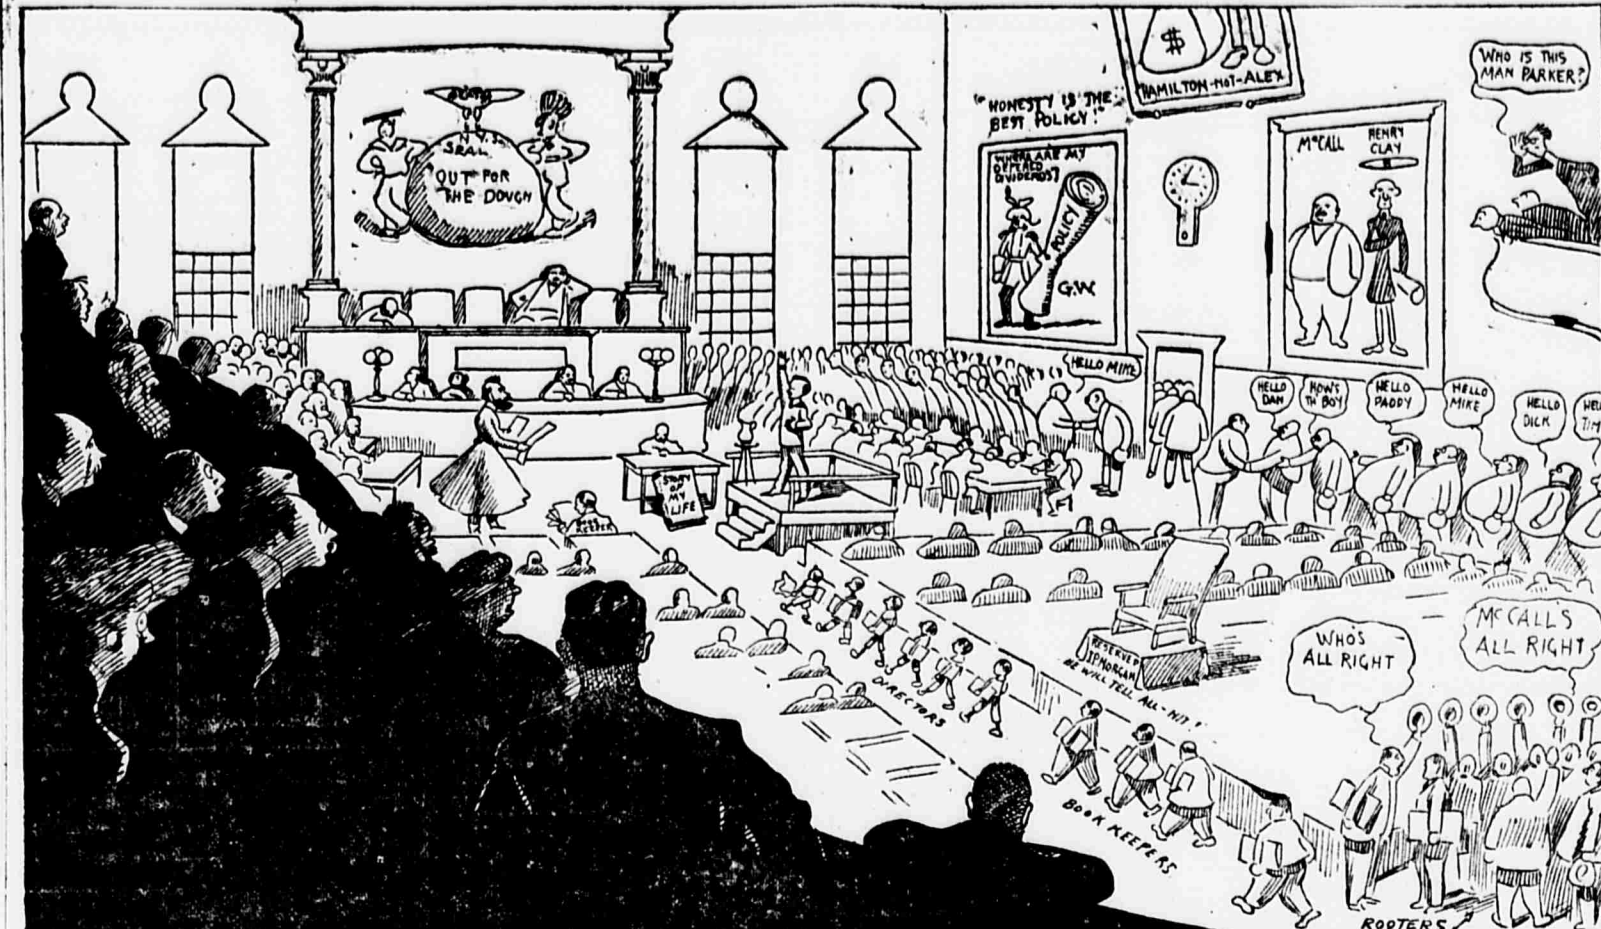

"At the time of the execution of the trust agreement, the trustees determined that the persons they would recommend for election to fill existing vacancies in the board should be taken entirely from policy-holders of the society. This notice was to make known the fact that the trustees contemplated at an early date to recommend policy-holders to the Board of Directors for election to fill vacancies in that body, and to give such opportunity as the necessity of speedy action by the trustees permitted, for the expression on the part of the policy-holders of their preferences in the matter of filling such vacancies."

Only Nine Recommendations.

"In response to this notice the trustees received representatives from a number of associations of policy-holders in different localities, who gave valuable and trustworthy advice concerning the choice of those they represented, but with all this and with diligent effort in other ways to secure information, and after availing themselves of their combined acquaintanceship, the trustees, at a meeting held on the 27th day of June, were able to recommend only nine persons for election by the board to fill vacancies."

"On the following day another notice from the trustees to policy holders was published in the public press as extensively as possible, again strongly urging them to give the trustees the aid of their experience and preference in filling vacancies in the Board of Directors and pledging themselves to do all in their power to subvert the interests of such policy holders."

This is a bird's-eye view of the insurance investigation, sketched yesterday. In the centre of the picture stands Mr. Perkins, the young Vice-President of the New York Life. (Col. Mulberry Sellers—"There's millions in it.") To the left sits Mr. Perkins' bookkeeper. The man with the bell coat is Mr. Hughes, waiting to get a word in. Coming up the aisle are the Morgan & Co.'s office boys, clerks, bookkeepers and directors. To the right are the McCall rosters. The committee has just stepped down for a minute to meet some friends.—T. E. POWERS.

Order of "Nylies" In the N. Y. Life.

NYLIES—An organization of agents divided into the following classes:

Second-degree Nylies.
Third-degree Nylies.
Senior Nylies.

Percentage of remuneration to be increased year after year.

friend of James Hazen Hyde and Assistant Secretary of the Equitable, took the witness stand following the reading of the Cleveland letter. Chief Counsel Hughes immediately probed into the syndicate's transactions of the Equitable. These transactions covered deals in Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Erie bonds which were managed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and J. P. Morgan & Co. In the Southern Pacific transaction Gen. Louis Fitzgerald, then a director of the Equitable, was a participant.

Profit Not Reported.

In many of the syndicates managed by J. P. Morgan & Co. Mr. Winthrop said profits had not been reported. Inquiry had been made, but no answer had been received. Chief Counsel Hughes immediately probed into the syndicate's transactions of the Equitable. These transactions covered deals in Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Erie bonds which were managed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and J. P. Morgan & Co. In the Southern Pacific transaction Gen. Louis Fitzgerald, then a director of the Equitable, was a participant.

Not in the Frick Report.

On Dec. 13, 1904, "Thomas Hazen Hyde and associates" paid $18,000 to the Equitable as the profit of the Atlantic Coast Line Syndicate, in which the company had invested $1,000,000. "Q. Was that syndicate embraced in the Frick report?" A. No. "Q. Was it presented to the Frick committee?" A. The Frick committee had access to all the books. I couldn't say whether the committee saw it or not. From the report it would seem that it did not.

Cashier Dempsey Called.

It developed when Cashier Henry Dempsey, of the Citizens' Central National Bank, was called that Andrew Hamilton had an account there, but that was all the witness could tell. By Mr. Hughes: "Q. Has Andrew Hamilton an account at that bank?" A. Yes. "Q. Have you a transcript of that account?" A. Yes. "The transcript was produced and put upon the record. Dempsey swore that he could furnish no more information concerning it than was to be obtained from the credits and debits appearing there. His account was opened some time in 1903."

$100,000 CHECK NOT USED FOR LEGISLATION, SAYS HAMILTON.

(Copyright, 1905, by the Press Publishing Company, New York World.) PARIS, Sept. 22.—Andrew Hamilton, personal counsel to President John A. McCall, of the New York Life Insurance Company, reached Biarritz yesterday after completing an automobile tour through the South of France. He was met at Biarritz by a telegraphic inquiry from The World relative to the $100,000 check made out to him by the New York Life Insurance Company in March, 1904, to which he replied by wire as follows:

"You can deny for me that the check for $100,000 to me from the New York Life in March, 1904, was, as asserted in New York, for purposes of influencing State legislation or that it was so used."

its rules were produced and put in evidence. The witness said that the Nylie is an organization of men in the employ of the New York Life, formed with the idea of helping to retain good men as agents. There are five degrees, freshman Nylies, first degree, second degree, third degree Nylies and senior Nylies. Any man with a contract with the company is eligible as a freshman Nylie.

The Organization Rules.

Mr. Hughes then read from the organization rules. "In 1905," he asked, "every freshman Nylie qualifies as a first degree Nylie by the end of the year and receives $25,000 insurance per annum?" A. Yes. "Q. If he failed in any year to get $25,000 new insurance he reverted to the stage of a freshman Nylie?" A. Yes.

Then Mr. Hughes went on to show that after five years a second degree Nylie, during which term he got $1 per month on each $1,000 of new insurance he produced during the year of his production as a first Nylie, he then became a third degree Nylie. "The payment to a third Nylie while qualifying for Senior Nylie was $150 per $1,000 in the last productive year as a first degree Nylie."

In every case the man had to give full time to the company and to produce $25,000 insurance for each year under the plan of falling back a class and promotion to each class meant an extra five years' service. A senior Nylie whether he worked or not got 75 cents per month for life in each $1,000 written in the last productive year of each period of five years of service with the company.

Nearly 1,000 Nylies.

Q. How many Nylies now? A. 915, 400 of whom are freshmen. Q. How many agents not Nylies? A. About 5,000 men must give whole time to the company to secure necessary amount of insurance to qualify. Q. How much money was paid by the New York Life to trustees for Nylie fund in 1904? A. Two hundred and fifty-nine thousand six hundred dollars. I think this includes payments by agency directors or for bonuses for the year 1901 in 1902 of $78,568.

Q. What are the figures for 1903? A. The company paid $100,712 and the agency directors $10,630.

BURGLAR MAY CAUSE DEATH OF WOMAN

Mrs. Margaret Gabler, of No. 137 Lexington avenue is at the point of death as a result of shock and fright experienced this afternoon when a burglar forced his way into her home where she was ill in bed. She was alone, a trained nurse who had been caring for her having stepped out on an errand. The screams of Mrs. Gabler frightened the fellow, who had burst in the door and he ran, but the nurse met him on the stairway and gave chase. After a pursuit of two blocks he was caught by Policeman Dunnison, of the East 100th and Fourth street station, in a cellar at No. 155 East One Hundred and Eighth street. He gave the name of Samuel Klein.

He had evidently been watching the flat and rang the bell as soon as he saw the nurse leave. Mrs. Gabler was unable to get up and answer and it is probable that he inferred that there was no one in the flat.

He hurried to the second floor and lost no time in kicking in the door of the dining-room. Mrs. Gabler, frightened, jumped from the bed and screamed and the fellow ran.

Magistrate Vahle, in Harlem Police Court, held Klein in $2,000 bail. He said his home was at No. 238 West Ninety-fourth street. Mrs. Gabler is under the care of two physicians.
